

Your support of world-class art education is an investment in the future of culture.

Tuition only covers one-fourth of expenses. We need your support.

Empowered by a rigorous curriculum, our students, instructors and alumni—now working in studios from India to Colorado—are receiving local, national and international accolades. Even as they attain sustainable art careers, they make sure to give back. Through teaching and charity work, they use the skills and creativity developed at Studio Incamminati to help and inspire others.

Our mission is to offer an exceptional education at an affordable cost. Students can then begin their art careers without the burden of heavy debt. We need your help to fulfill that mission. Here's why: Tuition covers one quarter of our expenses and we receive little government support. Your tax-deductible gift is crucial to help us continue producing accomplished artists who are making a difference.
